MAN FOUND DEAD AT FT. BRAGG AUTO CAMP

George Hilmer, Recent Employee of Rockport Company, Thought Booze Victim

FT. BRAGG, May 4.—A man who was identified as a former employee of the Finkbine-Guild Lumber company at Rockport was found dead in the city auto park Saturday morning. Aside from his name—George Hilmer—very little is known about the deceased, who evidently came to his death through alcoholism.

He was found by Ed. Moore, of Miami, Texas, who happened to be stopping at the camp Friday night. Moore at the coroner's inquest testified that he started out that morning in search of wood for a camp fire and while thus engaged looking about in the western part of the grounds came upon the body of Hilmer which he found stretched out in a portion of the ground partly covered with undergrowth.

An empty liquor bottle was found within a few feet of his body. Evidently emptied by him just before he collapsed, one or two other bottles were found near at hand. One of these bottles was identified as bearing the same label as those taken from Toivo Kavakka caught by the officers in the park last week, just as he had established himself in the camp ground and got started to peddling liquor. The liquor taken from Kavakka was particularly vile looking stuff. An endeavor will be made to secure an analysis of a sample bottle of this liquor and find out just how deadly it is.

Hilmer was observed to be under the influence of liquor at different times, and apparently had been drinking more or less steadily.

None of the dead man's relatives are known, nor his former residence. He was buried here Monday in the Fort Bragg cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clarke, their son, Frank, and their daughter, Mrs. Winchester, were in Ukiah Wednesday from their home near Laytonville. They were leaving for a motor trip to various parts of the state. HIGH SCHOOL MUSICIANS WIN SIGNAL HONORS

Ukiah high school band and orchestra returned with laurels from the north coast section high school band and orchestra contests held in Santa Rosa last Friday evening. Ukiah high school band took second honors in class A, competing with four high schools for the honors. The orchestra took first prize in class B, six orchestras being entered in this contest. The bands and orchestras were judged on the following points: Intonation, tonal and harmonic balance, tone quality, precision and interpretation. The judges in the contest were C. A. Davidson, Walter N. Wood, Elmer Young.

The competing high schools in the group were Santa Rosa, Willits, Fort Bragg, Upper Lake, Lakeport, Healdsburg, Sonoma, Sebastopol, Fairfax, Vallejo and Tamalpais. Competing against larger student bodies and longer established music departments lays stronger emphasis on the rewards won by the local music department.

The contest was held in the auditorium of Santa Rosa high school and was attended by more than a thousand people in the evening. Members of the band and orchestra wore white with purple ribbon across their shoulders on which "Ukiah High" appeared in gold letters.

Three players from Ukiah band were chosen to play in the all state women's band in the municipal auditorium in San Francisco, Saturday night. The players are Maxine Adams, Virginia Benjes, trombones; Frances Boring, clarinet.

FISHERMEN DISAPPOINTED

Fishermen were disappointed for the most part on the opening day, the water being too high for successful fishing in most streams in this county. To add to the bad luck, it rained hard Saturday night and many tourists from the bay section and Sonoma county who had anticipated a pleasureable week end camping trip, found their pleasure spoiled by a wet camp.

Good catches are reported from Vassar creek, Robinson creek, the Asylum dam and Mill creek, Reeves canyon and Doolan creek. Eel river was too high, as were nearly all its tributaries.

GEORGE GRACY DIES AT SAN JOSE HOME

FT. BRAGG, May 4.—George Gracy, well known to people of this place, whose residence dates back twenty years, died at his home in San Jose the latter part of last week. Death was due to carcinoma, and the deceased had been ill for some time.

Mr. Gracy was a native of Michigan and over 70 years of age. He grew up in his native state when it was one of the principal lumbering sections of this country and in early life, became schooled in that industry. He left his native state, something over twenty years ago when the lumber industry began to wane there and came to Fort Bragg where he took over the position of woods superintendent for the Union Lumber Company and conducted logging operations on the Noyo for a number of years until he retired to go to Ukiah, where he purchased the old Smith & Hill stables, which he conducted for several years and later sold them and moved to San Jose, where he has since resided.

Mr. Gracy is survived by his wife; one son, Lawrence, and a sister, Mrs. Jane Neff, living at Fort Bragg. Upon receipt of the news of his death, Mrs. Neff and her niece, Mrs. E. E. Brown, departed immediately for San Jose, where funeral services were held Monday.

The body of Fred Lisquala, a trusty who has been missing from the state hospital for about two months, was found on the bank of Mill creek last Sunday by Chester Hill while the latter was fishing. The body was near the middle dam. It was in an advanced stage of decomposition, but sufficient marks of identification were found to establish the fact that it was Lisquala.

The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death from natural causes.

There is to be an exhibit of different breeds and types of sheep raised under Mendocino county conditions with a discussion on the same. The matter of cross-breeding will be considered and the results of a number of crosses tried out in the county will be exhibited. The demonstration will be in charge of Professors Miller and Wilson of the Division of Animal Husbandry of the University of California.

It is hoped that all sheepmen of the county will take advantage of this event in order to become better acquainted with the different grades of wool as well as sheep management problems. The demonstration is to be held irrespective of weather conditions. In case of rain provision is being made to conduct the work indoors.

BRAGG, May 4.—The little old man of Noyo, known to most people in this vicinity as "Harry the Jap," and who has lived for many years in a hut at the mouth of the Noyo river was taken to Ukiah last Thursday where he entered the hospital for care and treatment. UKIAH'S QUOTA FOR FLOOD DISASTER $600

Ukiah's quota for Mississippi disaster relief fund is $600 and the local Red Cross in response to an urgent call from headquarters is bending every effort to reach the quota at the earliest possible date.

The first quota given Ukiah was $300. This sum was raised immediately and forwarded without delay. Almost before the first quota was raised a wire was received asking that the amount be doubled and every effort made to reach the amount.

J. R. Thomas, head of the local Red Cross is in receipt of a letter from headquarters congratulating the chapter on so promptly sending the original quota and expressing to the people of the community appreciation for their generous contributions. Every cent is needed, according to the Red Cross authorities, as the seriousness of the situation is appalling.

The first quota was subscribed from the business districts. The second will be canvassed in the resident districts of this city. Sums of money for this most worthy cause can be given to J. R. Thomas, head of the local Red Cross, Claire Smith, county treasurer, Louis Hofman.

LOCALS

C. A. Tarwater, well known garage man of Boonville, was in town on business Monday.

Grover Neep and wife are leaving Sunday for a trip to Longview, Washington. They expect to return the first week in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Voigt and children have been visiting here the past week with Mrs. Voigt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Heryford.

FINANCIAL AGENT ENGAGED BY RODEO ASSOCIATION

Jack Kellam, representative of one of the large banks of Oakland, met with the rodeo association Sunday in Ukiah and completed arrangements whereby Mr. Kellam will have charge of the financial end of the rodeo. Mr. Kellam will be assisted by five ticket men, one for boxes, two for grandstand and two for general admission. In addition to these he will employ five ushers to handle the crowds. This arrangement should insure the public against confusion and misunderstanding. Mr. Kellam has had many years experience in this work and one of the many enterprises he has successfully handled is the Oakland Horse Show. This arrangement relieves the rodeo association of a big responsibility and allows them to devote their entire time to the staging of the rodeo. The association is indeed very fortunate to be able to secure the services of so capable a man.

Mr. Kellam stated that he would have the grandstand and box seats on sale in Ukiah about one week before the show. Prospective buyers will have ample opportunity to look the grandstand over and then buy as they like. Notwithstanding the fact that thousands of dollars have been spent enlarging and securing the worlds best in stock and performers the price of admission remains the same as at Covelo, which fact will be appreciated by people with large families who wish to take the kiddies to the rodeo.

BASEBALL SEASON WILL OPEN HERE SUNDAY

Ukiah's First Game To Be With Lakeport on Local Diamond on May Eighth

Ukiah is starting off the baseball season next Sunday, by taking on Lakeport, and will have a strong line-up on the diamond. Lakeport has been playing for a month and is in good shape. The fellows here have been practising faithfully for three weeks and are "rarin to go." The following will probably be the starting line-up for next Sunday: Kennedy, first base; Blackson, center field; Ottoson, left field; B. Broaddus, third base; W. Broaddus, catcher; Grilli, short stop; Heinrich, second base; Weselsky, right field; Leno, pitcher. It is possible that Jim Busch will be here and play short, and in that event the infield will be switched around to make room for Busch. Ottoson, Weselsky and Heinrich are new faces in the line-up and have lookd good in practice. The rest of the fellows are old timers and don't need any introduction.

Turn out and give the team a good send-off. The fish aren't biting any too good anyway.

Might we make this a richer and fuller day, not only in tangible gifts or memory cherished, but also by striving to live the honor we would bestow.

Partners in Community Development

It would be hard to find two factors in a community more necessary to its development and growth than the bank depositor and the bank itself.

The one, by spending less than he earns, makes possible the capital that is needed to keep the wheels of community business turning.

The other, by accumulating this capital into one huge central fund, makes it easily and conveniently available to those who must use it.

Both are essential to the growth of the community. Both profit by the cooperation of the other. We invite your confidence and cooperation in making the efforts of both this bank and yourself more effective in this community by inviting you to deposit more with us.

The Rambler

Mr. Palmer, of the railroad company, says he will build a new depot if Ukiah will make certain improvements on Mason street, and I am told that the city stands ready to make the improvements if the company will build the depot.

Under these circumstances, why is it that we do not get a new depot?

Mr. Handy, I have asked you to do a number of things and you have always done them. You are one of those stalwarts that cuts out the bull and gets down to business. I'm wishing a tremendous chore on you, I know. But, Ukiah needs a new depot. On this question, the people are unanimous.

Will you not, Mr. Handy, put this new depot on your order of business? If you will, I have every confidence in the final accomplishment.

Do you ever think of the material value to a community of excellent schools? How many families do you think move to Berkeley or Palo Alto each year because of the elementary and high schools there? A friend of mine living out of town but in the county, recently moved his family to Berkeley.

E. V. Jones is justice of the peace in Potter valley. Last week several youngsters came before him for violating the law. And the judge sentenced them to a year in Sunday school. If he had added a good thrashing at home every Monday, it would have been a perfect sentence.

Good for "Al" Smith. This is what he has just said: "Instead of quarrelling among ourselves over dogmatic principles, it would be infinitely better if we joined together in inculcating obedience to these Commandments in the hearts and minds of the youth of the country as the surest and best road to happiness on this earth and to peace in the world to come. This is the common ideal of all religions. What we need is more religion for our young people, not less; and the way to get more religion is to stop the bickering among our sects which can only have for its effect the creation of doubt in the minds of our youth as to whether or not it is necessary to pay attention to religion at all."

The new Saturday Afternoon club rooms are beautiful. I have always insisted that it costs just as much to make a thing hideous, or a jumble of colors that strike one right in the face, as it does to build in good taste and make rooms restful. Take the Masonic hall, for example, it is one of the most harmonious and restful rooms in Ukiah. The club women have made a real contribution to our civic life.

The beauty of the row of houses erected by Mr. Bergstrom south of the school is not lost now by reason of buildings of a past age. It is really a very attractive part of town now.

Church was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him, and the community regrets his untimely death, and sympathy is extended the bereaved family. The mother, a sister and three brothers survive.

The Christian Endeavorers will hold their regular monthly social at the Community house on Thursday of this week, instead of Friday. Rev. Henry McFadden is expected to be here at that time in the interest of the summer conference.

Vernon Grist, who has been in San Francisco for the past month under medical treatment, returned home Sunday, very much benefitted in health. He has re-entered school to be present at the county examinations. Mrs. Grist is expected home soon.

The May Day picnic Saturday in Albert Brown's grove, sponsored by the flower committee of the W. I. C., was very largely attended and was a decided success; the consensus of opinion being that it should be made an annual institution. The weather was somewhat against solid comfort for the older ones. A strong north wind and clouds instead of the expected May sunshine caused some folks to return home after the exercises, instead of eating out in the open. Those who remained felt amply repaid in the added social privileges and the fun of watching and participating in the games in progress after lunch.

Miss Isabelle Spurlock made a regal and beautiful May queen. Miss Christine Short had received first place in the voting contest but being unavoidably out of town, Miss Spurlock, who was a close second, acted in that capacity. The bevy of little girls who wound the May pole did so without a hitch of any kind and that part of the program, with their pretty dancing steps, white dresses contrasting with the gay ribbons on the pole made a pretty picture. Prof. Geo. Barton was master of ceremonies, the May pole dance was under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Haydon assisted by Mrs. Robinson, Miss Van Soosten, and Mrs. Ruch. Byron Hurt had charge of the after dinner contests and games. The committee headed by Mrs. Geo. Biggar wishes to thank these people and all others who so ably and willingly helped to make a success of the picnic and program.

One of the main features of the picnic program was the awarding of the prizes in the Better Homes and Garden contest put on by the flower committee. The committee of judges were Messrs. Lodge and Raemer, and Miss Dillinger. The chairman, Mr. Lodge, announced that the judges had found more work and more time required in inspection and judging than they had expected, causing them to be a trifle late in arriving on the grounds, on account of having to finish on Saturday morning what they had expected to accomplish on the day before. Considerable interest had been shown in this contest and a number of entrants made. The judges' decision was as follows:

For neatest premises, (prize $10), Mrs. Geo. Lovejoy. Honorable mention, Mrs. Ed. Long.

For prettiest flower garden, ($5), Mrs. R. M. Anderson. Honorable mention, Mrs. Lovejoy.

For best strawberry bed, ($5), Mrs. R. M. Anderson. Honorable mention, Mrs. James O'Farrell.

For prettiest porch and window display of plants, ($5), Mrs. Ruth Haydon. Honorable mention, Mrs. O'Farrell.

On account of the lateness of the season and the backwardness of the vegetable gardens, decision on that feature of the contest was deferred for three or four weeks, until the gardens could make a better showing.

The creamery is undergoing a radical change, preparatory to the business of cheese making. The churn and cream vats have been removed and cheese vats installed. The pastuerizer has been changed, and everything necessary to a thoroughly up-to-date cheese plant is being put in place. No milk will be separated at the creamery, after the new process is set in motion, but the whole milk will be used in cheese making. The hand separated milk brought in will be shipped out and the butter will be shipped in.

Messrs. Ralph Vawters and John Sollie, head creamery men from San Francisco, were here last week overseeing the reconstruction at the creamery. Mr. Sollie returned to the city Tuesday and Mr. Vawters, on Thursday. Mr. Vawters came back Monday. Both gentlemen were guests of the Lowry family during their stay in the valley.

Gilbert Clifton, little two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Foster, died very suddenly Monday morning. He was a lovable little boy and his loss is a great shock to the parents and relatives. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Baptist church, Rev. Secor in charge. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT ON DANGEROUS COAST HILL

Caspar Again Scene of Narrow Escape for Motorists When Car Gets Beyond Control

Another accident occurred Thursday afternoon on the Caspar hill, when two young men, Howard Rayborn, age 18, and Louie Freitas, about 12, the latter a son of Joe Freitas of Pine Grove, were coming down the grade in a Chevrolet touring car, coasting along in neutral and the brakes failed to hold. When they reached the end of the bridge the speed of the car was too great to permit them to make the turn, and the car crashed through the guard rails, landing against a big redwood log in the pond. The boys managed to scramble to the bank, and were picked up and hurried to a physician.

Young Freitas was taken to the office of Dr. Preston and found to be suffering from a big cut on his face, extending from his eye to the corner of his mouth and a gash cut in his hand from the broken windshield. The physician bound up his injuries and he was taken home. The Rayborn boy was struck in the face by the steering wheel and was thought might have suffered internal injuries. He was removed to the hospital at Fort Bragg, where he is being treated.

The machine, which was pretty badly damaged, remained in the water until Friday morning, when it was pulled out.

This is one of a number of accidents that have occurred on this hill within a short time—one, a fatality, when Ed Hitch and his partner, Joe Bonzani, garage men of Caspar, went over the grade about half way down the hill and Hitch was killed. This accident happened about the first of January.

Several months ago a woman and two children, living at Fort Bragg, were driving down the hill and the car getting away from her, crashed through the railing of the bridge and plunged into the pond, from whence they were rescued by several pondmen, who fortunately were working nearby, otherwise they would probably drowned.—Mendocino Beacon.

Standardization in Service

THE manufacturing of equipment for the Bell System was one of the earliest, and is now among the outstanding examples of the standardization and quantity production which are distinctive characteristics of American industry.

Quantity production for the nation-wide Bell System makes it possible to put into every item of telephone equipment better material and better workmanship, at a lower cost to the telephone user, than could otherwise be done. But the dominant advantage of uniform manufacturing, under standard specifications, lies in the improvement of the service.

Every transmitter in the System is designed to work in harmony with every receiver all over the land and to co-ordinate with all the complicated equipment and lines behind. All can function at full efficiency for they are designed and manufactured for that purpose. Standardization, not only of equipment but of operating methods, is the only basis upon which it would be possible adequately to meet America's need of a nation-wide, universal telephone service.

Visit to Birthplace Upset "Divine Sarah"

It is generally believed, and the Encyclopedia Britannica records, that Sarah Bernhardt, the noted actress, was born in Paris and that her parents were a mixture of French and Dutch and of Jewish descent, but the most recent version of her origin says she was born in Amsterdam, Holland, of Jew parents. The authority for this version is Lyon van Lyer of Amsterdam, who revealed the purported true story of the actress' birth at a dinner in Amsterdam not long after Sarah Bernhardt's death. He claimed that her father was his brother. Van Lyer related that once when the Divine Sarah visited Amsterdam, she sought him and asked to be shown the place where she was born. It was a squalid, underground room, and when they arrived, a blind, decrepit beggar lay on a bed of rags in one corner. The actress collapsed on a rickety chair and burst into tears. Suddenly she leaped up, flung a 1,000-franc note on the table in the center of the room and fled up the steps and out into the street.—New York Evening Post.

Desirable Margin

The passengers in the big car speeding toward the railroad crossing began arguing whether or not they could beat the train.

"Don't get excited," said the driver. "I can easily make it."

"And I say you can't," shouted the front-seat passenger. "The train will beat us by 20 seconds."

"Gwan!" said the driver, who kept increasing his speed while the argument continued.

Finally a passenger in the rear seat, who had said nothing so far, remarked as he clutched the sides of the rushing car: "For my part, I don't care a hang who wins this race, but I hope it won't be a tie."—Boston Transcript.

Best Way to Apply Wax

The best method of applying the wax to floors is to take cheesecloth and double it to get added thickness, then fold into a sort of bag. Put a handful of wax inside and go over the floor thoroughly. It will be found that the wax works through the meshes of cheesecloth and gives an even coating over the floor. This prevents waste and excessive wax in spots.

After the floor has been gone over with the wax and allowed to dry about 20 minutes it is ready for polishing. Rub to a polish with a weighted floor brush, first across the grain of the wood, then with it.

St. Pat and the Snakes

The chief accomplishment legend attributed to Saint Patrick was driving all the snakes out of Ireland, but history does not record the event. Writing in Adventure Magazine, Post Sargent says he thinks the story must have arisen from the fact that Patrick took refuge, after his escape from captivity, in the island cloister of Lerinus. In the beginning, Lerinus had been infested by snakes, so that no man could live there. Honoratus, a monk, took possession of it, drove out the snakes and reclaimed it for cultivation. Hence the confusion. Probably the snakes were all gone by the time Patrick reached there.

Impossible

A woman I had never seen before came into our store to buy a card. Her little girl was having such a wonderful time playing with the toys that she asked me if she could leave the child for a few minutes while she bought some things next door. After three hours the mother returned.

The child had been quite destructive and had broken two 50-cent toys. The mother said, "Well, as long as they're broken you might just as well give them to her. You can't sell them now."

Wasn't that cheek?—L. O. B., in Chicago Tribune.

Abundant Proof That Colonials Lived Well

Were William Penn to come back to his province few changes would impress him more than the complete alteration that has taken place in the hours for meals, and what is consumed at them.

My lord proprietor ate his heavy meal at noon, and a heavy meal it was. Little or nothing was eaten before that sacred hour, though in those "good old days" many began the day with a drink of some very strong beverage. You would never guess the other "breakfast food." Radishes. "They procured appetite and helped digestion."

By noon the table was set with knife and spoon; forks were very rarely used then. Meats of all kinds comprised most of the food. There seems to have been very few vegetables, and we must remember there were no cold-storage facilities of any kind.

Why Penn's father did not die of apoplexy or liver trouble has puzzled many historians. On January 6, 1662, he gave a dinner at which, in addition to a 'chine of beef and other good cheer," they had "18 mince pies in a dish."—From the Corn Exchange.

Toys Aid Formation of Child's Character

A toy! That's what we think of as soon as we plan to give a present to a child, because all children love toys. To many people the mere pleasure is reason enough for giving whatever the child desires most without any further thought in the matter—unless it is, of course, the expense.

Yet these unconsidering givers are numerous among those who find the greatest fault with the young people of today because they are extravagant and wasteful, because they have no resources for entertainment within themselves. They little realize that what they deplore in the present generation of young people had its beginnings in wrong training during the first years of these children's lives. Toys have a direct bearing not only upon young people's amusements, but upon the development of their character as well.

The first consideration, of course, in selecting playthings is the question of pleasure for the child. But what sort of pleasure—momentary, overexcitement or permanent contribution to his interests and resources?—Children, the Magazine for Parents.

Affectations of Beauty

It was a certain affection becoming to his beauty that made Alexander carry his head on one side, and Alcibiades to lisp; Julius Caesar scratched his head with one finger, which was the fashion of a man full of troublesome thoughts; and Cicero, as I take it, was wont to wrinkle up his nose, as a sign of a man given to scoffing. Amongst irregular countenances, let us not forget that severe one of Emperor Constantius, who always in public held his head quite upright, without bending or turning on either side, not so much as to look upon those who saluted him on one side, planting his body in a stiff, immovable posture, without suffering it to yield to the motion of the coach; not daring so much as to spit, blow his nose, or wipe his face before people.—Montaigne.

Dancing Birds

Many of the birds of South America have the regularly formed habit of meeting periodically in the same place for the purpose of dancing. Some sing as they dance, others accompany the refrain by something unquestionably like instrumental music. The rupicola dances alone. Birds of this species range themselves in a circle around level, mossy or soft ground, and one of them, bright with orange and vivid scarlet plumage, leaves the circle and advances to the center of the space with the dignity of a courtier dancing a minuet, his wings spread and tail like a fan. He begins slowly, then, gradually increasing speed, terminates his performances by leaping and whirling until he falls from exhaustion.

"Plantation of Ulster"

The Ulster plantation was the colonization of a large part of Ulster, Ireland, by English and Scottish settlers, 1609-11. The troubles of the early Seventeenth century resulted in the forfeiture of a large part of Ulster to the crown. In 1608 a commission was appointed to determine what to do with the lands. It was proposed to colonize the whole district with retired civil and military servants and colonists from England and Scotland. The lands were divided into portions of 1,000, 1,500 and 2,000 acres, and each large proprietor was bound to build a castle on his estate and forbidden to alienate the land to Irishmen.

Early Head Covering

The earliest form of hat known, according to some historians, was the circular, close-fitting cap, worn either plain or braided. Ancient pictures show that it was worn by captives from Palestine in Assyria, and it appeared also on the heads of the pictured deities and sculptored deities among the heathen tribes.

The Greeks in early times wore two kinds of hat, the "pileus" and the "petasus." The former had no brim, while the latter was made of felt and had a wide brim to protect the wearer from the sun. It is believed that the present-day felt hat is its direct descendant.—New York Times.

Saturday Afternoon Clubhouse Is Formally Opened

There was a charm in the opening of the new Saturday Afternoon clubhouse that is not readily expressed in print nor defined in thought. It was an elusive quality savoring somewhat of the atmosphere of a fine home and somewhat of the spirit of a public gathering at its best. Whatever it was, it was a fine quality and is a good omen at the formal opening of the clubhouse.

The clubhouse completed, surpasses the most sanguine expectations. It seems perfectly adapted to the size of the club, the type of the town, the financial backing and other lesser qualifications. It is beautiful to look at, well planned and well built, and should be a valuable asset to the community as well as the organization whose name it bears.

The program the opening night was short. Judge H. L. Preston, Mayor George Anderson and J. H. Kirkpatrick made short talks. Rev. L. C. Beasley dedicated the clubhouse in prayer. Mrs. W. D. L. Held gave a brief history of the club, suggesting that the future work be more closely allied with the young people than ever before, especially with the young women; Mrs. G. W. Stout expressed the appreciation of the building board and the club to those who had done special work. Z. J. Montgomery was presented with a handsome white gold watch appropriately engraved. The gift was acknowledgment of his services as advisory construction engineer. The choral section of the club contributed musical numbers. Mrs. E. W. Stephens was the soloist.

An informal reception and dancing followed the program. Refreshments were served.

Instead of the customary congratulatory flowers, gifts were acknowledged from the following: Foster's Variety store, Mason & Ray, Mrs. Theresa Ray of Ukiah General hospital, Mrs. Yamond York, Venetian Salon, the Rotary club, Ukiah Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Bertha Emery presented the club with a water color sketch of the Russian river; Mrs. Ed Gambrel, handsome andirons.

DR. INGRAM SPEAKS ON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

In carrying out the program of the Masonic order for public school week, Dr. E. E. Ingram of Santa Rosa gave an inspiring talk at the auditorium on Monday night of last week, dealing with the "assets" bound up in the lives of the boys and girls. Dr. Ingram said that the assets in any business or profession could be divided into three classes: material, moral and spiritual. The schools are in the field of moral assets, dealing with the moral assets of manhood and womanhood. The discovery of a life for each child, is what the schools ought to stand for if they stand for anything. If they cannot do this they fail. The school ought to give a discriminating intelligence.

Education is the discovery of a life; education is the development of a life; education is the transmission of a life, Dr. Ingram said, quoting in the last sentence the definition given by Benjamin Ide Wheeler, former president of the University of California. If a teacher cannot do that, he said, then a resignation is due. It is the biggest thing a school can do; it is the business of the school.

Dr. Ingram's subject was, "Three in One Asset." The boys and girls of every community are the moral, physical and spiritual assets in one. The biggest asset of the city of Ukiah are the boys and girls. The most drastic thing the Man of Galilee said related to a child. The speaker referred to the statement that it were better for a man that he have a mill stone around his neck and be drowned in the depths of the sea rather than offend a little child. Dr. Ingram stated that any man or woman who cannot give a child a chance in life ought to be gotten out of the way. In the speaker's opinion it is high time that every institution in the United States of America is getting behind the public schools for there is so much involved. He spoke of the potentialities for good or evil bound up in every child now playing on the school grounds. These boys and girls are going to be the preservers of certain ideals and certain things handed down to them.

The pig in the sty gets more attention than the boy in the parlor, said Dr. Ingram. Every man and woman owes a debt to every child. The right to unfold their lives in every possible way, putting nothing in the way of the life God has given them; the right to express themselves and the right of a healthy atmosphere.

In developing boys and girls the cost should never be questioned. The only question that should be asked is, "are we getting 100 cents out of the dollar expended?" In Dr. Ingram's opinion, no community is ever overtaxed when taxed for the public schools. The best money any community can spend is a properly equipped playground, well supervised, where children can express themselves in play.

In closing the speaker said that "the perpetuity of the United States of America, the prosperity, peace and happiness of the United States of America depends absoutely on the public schools. May we look well to them."

The speaker was introduced by William Bromley. Mr. Bromley said that believing the public schools were the foundation of the nation the Masonic orders had founded public school week.

A LONGER LIFE AFTER FORTY

"If American lives, on the average, have increased in length from the twenty-two years of the middle ages and the forty years of 1850 to the fifty-eight years of today, it would seem possible to continue the advance to the sixty-two years of New Zealand and then to the sixty-five years which authorities say is eventually possible," is the hopeful suggestion of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

But, How To Do It?

No better way has been suggested yet than (1) periodic health examinations and (2) prompt resort to medical advice when illness comes.

Give your doctor a chance, consult him early. And, when there are prescriptions to be filled, bring them here. You will have prompt and efficient service. Your prescriptions will be compounded by skilled pharmacists.

A CAPELLA CHOIR COMING TONIGHT

In recognition of National Music Week the Methodist church is bringing to Ukiah the A Cappella Choir of the Clolege of the Pacific, under the direction of Charles M. Dennis. The choir will be heard in the auditorium of the grammar school tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Bringing the A Cappella Choir to Ukiah is a musical contribution of value. This choir is one of the noted musical organizations of the west and it is a privilege to hear it.

It was the desire of those bringing the choir to Ukiah that it be a free contribution. This being impossible for financial reasons the price of admission has been made low, with the expectation of just covering expenses.

Redfern Mason, well known musical critic says of the choir: "The best choral music of home manufacture that San Ffancisco has heard in a decade" * * * * but they are doing choral work which commands the just enthusiasm of those who hear it." The Pacific Coast Musical Review says: "An unusually favorable impression was made by the A Cappella Choir which consists of excellent vocal material, all the members singing with precision and fine intonation, and phrasing with uniformity and judgment. Mr. Dennis has trained his choir with a carefulness that emphasizes musicianship and splendid interpretative faculties."

The following splendid program will be rendered by the choir tonight. It is hoped that a crowded auditorium will repay the members of the choir for the visit to Ukiah.

SPRING

The birds are singing,
Their songs of spring.
All nature listens,
As their voices ring.
The warbling wafts,
On the breezes loud.
With echoes of love,
To the shining cloud.

God's sweetest singers,
In tremolo time,
Are voicing their love,
In melody divine.
All nature welcomes,
To coo of the dove,
She softly trills,
Her wonders of love.

Faith of our Mothers, living still
In spite of sorrow, trial and woe.
How steadfast, brave and nobly true
Throughout the years that come and go
Faith of our Mothers, quenchless faith.
We will be true to thee, till death!

Faith of our Mothers, valiant, strong;
Cheering our hearts, in every strife;
Singing the music of hope's glad song,
Dispelling cares, ennobling life,
Faith of our Mothers—constant faith
We will be true to thee, till death!

Faith of our Mothers, radiant still;
Glowing more brightly day by day,
May we as they trust only Him
Who is the Light, the Truth, the Way.
Faith of our Mothers, Christian faith
We will be true to thee, till death!

CARD OF THANKS

E. J. Anderson, director of Ukiah high school band and orchestra, wishes to thank all those who gave their cars to take the young people to Santa Rosa last Friday or who assisted in any way in making the affair a success.

COAST NOTES

(Mendocino Beacon)

Dave Kearns, Coast Resident for Fifty Years, Dies

Dave Kearns, for over fifty years a resident of this coast, died at his home here Thursday morning, after but a few days confinement to his bed. However, he had been in feeble health for several years and for some months past his condition had been most serious.

Mrs. Kearns had been an invalid for a number of years by reason of a fall and injury to her hip and also to the infirmities of old age, and Mr. Kearns devoted himself to her care and was almost constantly with her and the passing of her life partner and devoted companion is a great loss to her.

Dave Kearns has been a well known figure in this town for over forty years. A native of Hemmingsford, Province of Quebec, anada, Mr. Kearns left home at an early age and came to this coast some 53 years ago. He found employment in the logging woods but later took up ranch work, having been raised on a farm, and being skilled in farm work. For many years he had charge of the company's dairy and ranch operations here, and after giving up this position held similar positions on other local farms, giving general satisfaction in the discharge of his duties.

Mr. Kearns was a man of very staunch principles, upright and honest in all his dealings, a true and good friend, and very highly regarded by all who knew him. He was a man of quiet speech and even disposition and a great lover of children and delighted in entertaining them with stories. These little friends came regularly the last days of his illness to inquire for him, hoping and trusting that he might recover.

Besides his wife, Mr. Kearns is survived by two brothers, Richard and Joshua, living at Pine Grove, John of Tacoma, Washington and William H. of Canada.

The funeral took place from the family home at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Rev. Davies officiating. The pall bearers were Henry Flood, H. H. Brown, John Daniels, N. W. Kent, Robert Cummings and Sam Cummings, all old time friends. Interment was in Little River cemetery.

Is Bound Over

The case of Leno Romeri of Boyle's camp, who was charged with the seduction of Florence Borgna some months ago, came up today for preliminary hearing before Judge Hoffman at Ukiah. A number of witnesses from Boyle's camp were called to Ukiah for this hearing.

Driver Runs Car Into Bank

G. P. Landert, butcher at Greenwood, coming down from Fort Bragg last Sunday night driving a Dodge coupe, was crowded off the road and ran his car into the bank north of Jack Peter's gulch bridge. The frame of his car was bent, the steering gear twisted and other damages sustained. The Coast Line Stages, agents for the Dodge, sent a tow car down and took the machine to their garage at Fort Bragg for repairs.

Injured at Caspar

Young Carvalho, employed at the Caspar mill, met with an accident Wednesday morning while working around the carriage. The nigger pulled out of a log which slipped and caught his hand, crushing two fingers. He was brought to Dr. Preston's office here and the doctor dressed his hand.

Rhododendrons Out

Before many days our prairie, as it is called, will be one vast flower garden. Already the rhododendrons are peeking out and it is one of the greatest pleasures to gather the beautiful blossoms and walk among them. God certainly bestowed upon us a blessing when he planted the rhododendron. I have seen many wild flowers in California, but I think the rhododendron is one of the most beautiful. Why is this called a prairie when we have so many beautiful trees and flowers?

CASPAR NOTES

CASPAR, Apr. 29.—Captain Chas. Wood, who has been employed here for a long time as watchman at the local roundhouse, purchased a boat several months ago and has been busy rigging it out for a trip to the south seas. The craft is 32 feet long and will cruise under sail. He expects to be ready to set sail by June 15. He has had several requests from magazine publishers to furnish them with his experiences and records of his trip, which he thinks under all probability he will do. Captain Wood is going to make this trip for the benefit of his health as physicians have told him that tropical climates will benefit him.

On sailing from here Tuesday afternoon the steamer Caspar when just outside the harbor broke one of the shafts of the engine and had to return to her mooring in the harbor to make repairs which delayed her about four hours, after which she was able to proceed on her journey. She returned here again Friday and took on a cargo of lumber and sailed again late Friday night for Pittsburg.

James Lilley and Miss Wood were united in marriage several days ago and left immediately on their honeymoon, returning home several days ago. They are living at Noyo camp where Mr. Lilley has a good position with the Caspar Lumber Company. We all join in extending them both a very long and happy career.

Dies at Caspar

Mrs. Mary Hayter passed away at her home at Caspar Friday afternoon after an illness of several weeks. She had suffered a paralytic stroke which had confined her to her bed. Funeral notices will be posted later.

TO THE PUBLIC

Having decided to build cabins on my lot instead of converting my store building into rooms, I will continue in the grocery business as a supply store to the general public as well as to campers.

MANY IMPORTANT CHANGES IN MOTOR VEHICLE CODE

California motorists will operate under a revised motor vehicle code as a result of the recent session of the legislature, which wrote into the state law many important changes, according to a summary today from the legislative bureau of the California State Automobile Association. These amendments to the motor vehicle act include:

Increase of the speed limit from 35 to 40 miles an hour.

Requiring clearance lights on vehicles of more than 80 inches width.

Making three convictions for reckless driving instead of for speeding automatic revocation of drivers' license.

To facilitate recovery of stolen cars, requiring police reports to the State Motor Vehicle Division of thefts and checking of registration against such records; requiring used car dealers to report sales, garages to report to police cars stored more than 30 days by unidentified persons and parking stations to keep records of cars stored more than 12 hours.

Subjecting persons found injuring or tampering with motor vehicles to immediate arrest instead of five day citation notice.

Making examination of new operators of motor vehicles mandatory and providing for cancellation of all drivers' licenses outstanding more than three years, subjecting applicants for renewal to possible examination.

Authorizing juries to recommend punishment of persons convicted of driving while intoxicated, instead of the present penitentiary sentence which by its severity militates against convictions.

Providing for compilation by the State Motor Vehicle Division of automobile accident records based on reports required by law thus providing a centralized record of fatal and personal injury accidents for cause and location studies and safety work.

Eliminating muffler cutouts beginning January 1, 1929.

Making it a misdemeanor to withhold certificate of ownership from purchaser legally entitled to same.

Increasing allotment of license fees to State Motor Vehicle Division from 20 to 25 per cent to provide for more adequate law enforcement.

The fourth account in the guardianship of Harry W. Groshong, a minor, shows receipts of $1313.03 and disbursements of $320, leaving $993.03 in the hands of the guardian.

TELEPHONE COMPANY STRONG FOR ADVERTISING

An interesting and convincing proof of the value of advertising and publicity is had in the success with which the telephone industry has used them. A fallacious argument, masked as conservative business judgment, used to be to the effect that "the telephone company should do no advertising for if anyone wants telephone service, he knows where it may be obtained."

As a matter of fact the telephone has, during the fifty-one years of its history, been popularized largely through consistent advertising in widely read newspapers and periodicals. The result has been that telephone service in the United States is used to a higher degree than in any other country in the world; and the American people have been given a reliable, efficient and universal telephone service. As one editor stated it: "People would not be using the telephone as they do today if the telephone idea had not been spread by means of advertising; and if valuable information had not been broadcast through publicity channels. The telephone company, with its effective advertising, has found, beyond doubt, the value of newspapers and magazines in bringing the merits of products and services before the public."

HOOKING THE TAXPAYER

When the proposition of bridging the Golden Gate first was submitted to the supervisors and people of Mendocino county, the proponents represented that the cost would be about $17,000,000. From that they jumped to about $27,000,000. Their figures are based on "engineer's estimates." Now an engineer's estimate is a peculiar thing, in that it has untold stretching powers. Most of us remember when the first highway bond issue of $15,000,000 was voted on engineers' estimates that it would build roads all over the state. As we look back the proposition looms up as the veriest comedy. The highway department has spent untold millions in addition to the original bond issue and is yelling now for $120,000,000 more, which they say will complete the system. It is a foregone conclusion that by the time they have expended that $120,000,000 they will want two or three hundred million more, and so on, ad infinitum. With the three-cent gas tax once hung on him the taxpayer will find that he will have to pay it forever instead of 12 years proposed by the "highwaymen."

* * * * *

To go back to the Golden Gate bridge, we give herewith some interesting statistics touching upon "engineers' estimates." Among the archieves of the State of New York is an interesting paper filed years ago in connection with the work of a canal investigating commission. It deals with estimates of public work and the actual cost of such work as finally charged to the account of the taxpayers. In the list are:

Erie canal—original estimate, $4,926,738; cost, $7,143,789. Erie canal—enlargement estimate, $23,402,863; cost, $32,008,851. Champlain canal—estimate, $871,000; cost, $1,746,062. Hoosic tunnel—estimate, $1,948,557; cost, $20,241,842.31. Manchester ship canal—estimate, $26,000,000; cost, $67,351,105. State Capitol at Albany—estimate, $4,000,000; cost, $24,000,000.

* * * * *

These figures were recalled recently by F. W. Fisher, director of public relations of the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, who followed his disclosure with later instances of costly guessing at the taxpayers' expense. He said:

"The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission's original application for authority and funds for building their Queenston plant states that the cost would be about $10,000,000. Messrs. Murray and Flood found that over $50,000,000 had been spent up to the fall of 1921, and that the work was a long way from completion. Rochester, Minnesota, voted $350,000, based on engineers' 'estimates,' for the construction of an electric plant; it cost over a million. Cleveland was to get a complete lighting plant, capable of serving the entire city for $2,000,000; over $6,000,000 has been spent, and the plant does less than a quarter of the lighting of that city."

* * * * *

So it goes. Hundreds of American cities could add their own sad experiences to the tale; for instance, to cite a few fit subjects for jeremiads, Los Angeles and its Owens Valley water and power development, Seattle and its infinitely elastic Skagit river power project, and San Francisco and its miraculously growing investment in a water project that after sixteen years has still to bring its first drop of water to householders' faucets.

* * * * *

If the people of Mendocino county are wise, they will sign unanimously the protests being circulated through the joint organization of the farmers and timber men. City property owners are not being invited to sign but they should organize and get busy upon their own initiative or they will find their property assessed to pay the extra burden placed upon them after the farmers and timber owners have slipped out of the district.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

We won the baseball game with Hopland last Friday. The score was 2 to 1 in our favor.

Our band and orchestra came out with colors flying, the orchestra winning a pretty silver cup for the first place in class A and the band winning another for second place in Class B. So now we are richer by two cups than at the first of the year. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson with the band and orchestra motored to Santa Rosa last Friday. Some of the Ukiahites who went with them said it was a pretty sight to see the girls dressed in white with a purple ribbon across from shoulder to waist on which was printed "Ukiah High." The boys were dressed in light trousers and shirts with the ribbon.

Preparations are now going on for the play day, May 14. Fort Bragg, Mendocino, Willits, Upper Lake, Lakeport, Potter valley, and Hopland schools are invited to come.

Thursday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock class I of the sewing section gave a fashion show. The mothers and friends of the girls were invited. It was held in the gym.

Mr. Bradshaw is still confined to his home this week because of sickness.

The flowers and plants that the biology class planted under Miss Durant's supervision will look very attractive in a few weeks.

The boys are repairing the tennis courts this week.

Girls' baseball is going strong this week.

The girls seem to be taking quite an interest in volley ball this year.

Miss Fuller is out of town on business this week.

A new silver loving cup rests in front assembly which our track team won at the Upper Lake track meet Easter week. It is for second place, but that is not so bad for the first meet of the season.

Miss Perry and the staff of the annual are working hard every day to get the copy together. Miss Perry deserves credit for the businesslike way in which she goes at it. She has had charge of the annual for several years and during that time each has been a big success.

The boys of the manual training class, under the direction of Mr. Beaufort, have been making chairs, tables, plant stands and other useful articles this year.

WANT TO CANCEL RATE

Northwestern Pacific Railroad Company, The Atchison, Topeka and Sant' Fe Railway Company and Southern Pacilc Company have applied to the Railroad Commission for permission to cancel commodity rates on cement between San Francisco and Oakland, and points on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. After cancellation of the commodity rates the class rates will apply, resulting in increases. It is alleged that there being no cement mills at San Francisco or Oakland or other points taking the same rates, necessity does not exist for the commodity rates which it is proposed to cancel.

Jury Upheld Whitman in Emphatic Manner

In all his life Whitman was in court but once, and that was rather a joke. While fishing in a pond near Babylon one day, not far from his father's farm, he was continually annoyed by a mischievous boy determined to have his fun, if not at the expense of the fish then at Whitman's. Finally exasperated, the latter coaxed the lad to row near in his boat, and then administered a sound thrashing with his rod. The culprit's father had Walt arrested, entrusting the prosecution of the case in the justice court to Gen. Nicholas Uhall. Sure of himself, Whitman undertook his own defense. He admitted the thrashing, but excused it on the ground that he was defending the vested rights of fishermen. The jury, whose foreman was a hard-headed farmer with a Yorkshire brogue, returned almost immediately.

"Have you arrived at a verdict?" asked the justice.

"We 'ave, your honor."

"What is the verdict?"

"We find 'e didn't 'it 'im' alf 'ard enough."

Despite the repeated protest on the part of the justice that the form of the verdict was irregular, the verdict stood.—From "Whitman, an Interpretation in Narrative," by Emory Holloway.

Dogs of St. Bernard Find Snow Handicap

The dogs to be found today in the great and little St. Bernard passes in Switzerland are of a smaller and less striking type than formerly. They are a cross between the Newfoundland and the sheep dog of the Pyrenees. They have been credited, moreover, with rather more than they can perform, says Charles Lincoln Freeston in the Motor Travel Magazine.

A Swiss professor of Geneva, given to making adventurous cross-country journeys on skis, relates that on one occasion, when he was within sight of the great St. Bernard hospice, the dogs came rushing out, but were unable to reach him through the soft snow, in which they floundered hopelessly. He is of the opinion that the uses of the famous dogs are more limited than is popularly supposed. One can conceive them as being highly serviceable in tracking a weary wayfarer overcome by a sudden blizzard on the road itself, but even St. Bernard dogs cannot walk over snow that is both deep and soft.

Japanese Mushrooms

Many varieties of mushooms, little known in this country or in Europe, are to be found in Japan. The most esteemed of these is the shii-take, which is chiefly grown on the evergreen oak.

Trees about six inches in diameter are felled and cut into lengths of six feet. The logs are scarred on the back, and are laid on the ground for about three years. Then they are stacked in rows in shady places and soon become covered with the mushrooms. After yielding one crop the logs are soaked in water, beaten with a wooden mallet, and again set up. In a few days new mushrooms begin to sprout on them. The shii-take is a great favorite in Japan, being used in many dishes, but most frequently in soups.

Czar's Coat in Museum

Occupying conspicuous positions in the Museum of Terror maintained in Moscow by the Russian state police (formerly known as the Tcheka and now as the Gay-pay-oo) are the coat worn by Nicholas II the day the last of the czars was executed in Ekaterinburg, in July, 1918; the lingerie of the Czarina Alexandra, and the uniform worn by Admiral Koltchak when he was shot by the Red army. According to an article recently printed in the Neues Wiener Journal, another exhibit is a jar of alcohol containing the heart of a former president of the Leningrad Tcheka who was shot by a student. The museum has a large collection of knouts and other implements of punishment and torture used in czarist days.

Bad Enough at That

Huckleberry Pendleton is a well-known character in Wiscasset, Maine. Not long since, shortly after dark, an acquaintance found him prone by the roadside, moaning. "What's the matter, Huck?" he inquired.

"I'm ruptured," replied the unfortunate one. "Heard it snap. Get me somewhere so's I kin be taken care of."

He was assisted home and a doctor called. The next day the samaritan met the physician.

"How's Huck's rupture?" he queried.

"Rupture, nothing" was the response. "Huck only busted off a suspender button."—Outlook.

French Driven to Revolt

The French revolution was mainly the result of the oppression of the French people, who rose in revolt against the extravagance and tyranny of the kings and nobles. In addition they had no adequate representation in the legislature. The taxes were heavy and in 1777 there were as many as 1,250,000 beggars in France. Alarmed by the increasing signs of unrest in the country, the king and some of the nobles began to gather the army near Paris. This so enraged the people of Paris that they stormed the Bastille on July 14, 1789. This is regarded as the beginning of the revolution.

TELEPHONE STANDS FOR DEMOCRACY

Practically any town of any size in the United States periodically reads an item like this about itself: "Telephone company to enlarge its facilities here to care for future growth of the community."

No village is too small to interest the telephone company, whose aim it is to anticipate the telephone needs of every community and rural district.

It is this desire to extend its service to the farthest corners of the nation and into the smallest homes which has given the United States a telephone service which is so far beyond that enjoyed by any other nation that comparisons are impossible. The telephone, in America, is not confined to government uses, to the aristocracy or to the official class.

No industry is more representative of democracy than the telephone; it serves all on the same basis and with the same courtesy. No other industry has a greater distribution of its stocks and bonds among its employees and the people of the nation. —Exchange.
